

End User License Agreement (EULA) for Vercel Defer

Last Modified: 10 December 2023

1. Acceptance of Terms

By installing, accessing, or using Vercel Defer ("Integration"), which is a software integration developed for use with Vercel and related services, you agree to be bound by the terms and conditions of this End User License Agreement ("EULA"). If you do not agree to the terms of this EULA, do not install or use the Integration.

2. License Grant

Defer grants you a non-exclusive, non-transferable, revocable license to use the Integration solely for your personal or internal business purposes. This license is subject to your compliance with this EULA.

3. Restrictions

You may not:

- a. Copy, modify, distribute, sell, or lease any part of the Integration.
- b. Reverse engineer or attempt to extract the source code of the Integration, except to the extent laws prohibit these restrictions.
- c. Use the Integration in any manner that could impair any of our services or interfere with any other party's use of the Integration.

4. Privacy and Data

Your use of the Integration is also subject to Defer's Privacy Policy, which explains how we collect, use, and protect your data.

5. Modifications to the EULA

Defer reserves the right to modify this EULA at any time. You will be notified of any material changes through an update or other reasonable means.

6. Termination

This EULA is effective until terminated by you or Defer. Your rights under this EULA will terminate automatically without notice if you fail to comply with any of its terms.

7. Disclaimer of Warranties

The Integration is provided "as is" and "as available", without any warranty of any kind. Defer disclaims all warranties, whether express, implied, statutory, or otherwise.

8. Limitation of Liability

To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, in no event will Defer be liable for any special, incidental, indirect, or consequential damages whatsoever arising out of the use of or inability to use the Integration.

9. Governing Law

This EULA and your use of the Integration are governed by the laws of State of Delaware without regard to its conflict of law principles.
